

HARTMANN SCIENCE CENTER

The scientific center of excellence
for disinfection, hygiene,
and infection prevention

Our Mission is Infection Prevention

Infectious diseases are the leading cause of death worldwide. Every year, illnesses caused by healthcare-associated infections generate financial losses of several billion euros, although a large part of these infections are avoidable simply by improving hygiene measures.

Research
The latest scientific findings and needs of our customers set the pace for the studies we conduct in collaboration with renowned researchers.

Results
Our team is constantly developing new standards, which are published through a variety of channels. Access and implementation are made easy with our HARTMANN tools and digital solutions.

Knowledge Transfer
We keep our customers up to date on infection prevention and control issues through our comprehensive website, newsletters, magazines, and symposia and events that we host.

Since 2011, the HARTMANN SCIENCE CENTER has been addressing current issues in hygiene and infection prevention, focusing on evidence-based solutions to better protect patients and healthcare workers.

To improve patient safety, we systematically seek to make infection control measures and knowledge available and to enable their implementation in daily routine.

Trainings
Scientific knowledge and complex topics are explained in our trainings and eLearning tools using a clear and simple language to integrate new standards into everyday practice.
